

SAW A WHOPPER AND THOUGHT IT WAS AN AIRSHIP

Two Hangovers Spied It on Wall and All Harlem Ran to Look.

"Oh it or isn't it?"
"Oh what? Oh, the airship on wall there? No, that's not anything.
Nothing looks like that. COULD be anything. Brace up, old fellow!" Two citizens leaned against the wall of the drug store at One Hundred and First street and Broadway to-day and fixed a wavering gaze on something between them. One wore evening clothes; the other had a bunch of carrots tied on the crook of his cane.
A butcher's boy, who was whistling "That Choo-Choo Rag," paused to admire, then drew closer to follow the similar pointing finger of the man in the evening clothes as it sought to direct attention to something on the wall.
"M'son, tell truth to me, m'son. What you see here on wall or don't you see anthing?"

The butcher's boy drew closer and what he saw there on the drugstore wall led him to drop his basket and run around the corner to the bootblack stand. He brought back Joe Rineunpopoli, his brother Oreste and Giuseppe Angeli, the fruit stand man.
"Look what the souse found!" the butcher's boy explained. The boot-black and the fruitstand man looked.
A man who was waiting on the corner for a car came and looked. An umbrella mender came and looked. The driver of a baker's wagon and a steam-fitter came and looked. Within ten minutes fifty people were fighting for a chance to look; and the citizen in the evening clothes was singing "Shall We Gather at the River?"

This is what they saw:
A bug.
No, not an ordinary bug.
Just the wildest, dog-gonest bug that ever landed on Manhattan, that's all.
As Policeman Michael Quinn, who hurried up to the crowd and tried to pick out somebody to arrest, afterward gave the specifications of the thing, it looked something like this:

"You might call him a bug, and again you might call him a baby hydroaeroplane, both would not be far wrong." "He had headlights on him like a humblebee but no tail, light or number.
He had wings, to be sure, and legs like a duck-web feet and all. When he snapped the wings of him it sounded like the missa pulling in her clothesline from the pole outside the kitchen window."
"Tee-hee! Sure like a horse, but not a lot of ears to the top of his head."
"Not the kind of a bug, take it from me, you'd want to meet on a dark night after being out with the boys."

There's no telling but that somebody in the growing crowd would have turned in a fire alarm if Mr. James Dunn of No. 115 West One Hundred and Ninth street, who is an amateur entomologist as well as a dealer in several kinds of eggs, had not come along just then.
"Oh, that is a Florida water bug," said Mr. Dunn after a quick look.
"Sure—that's the reason he's on a drug store. Poor bug's looking for high-ball of Florida water," commented the citizen with the carrots on his cane.
"Here's come a long way," said Mr.
Dunn. "It's a sign of a hot summer."
And he took the whimsy-wam bug away with him in a barrel.

COURT REFUSES PAY.

In refusing to allow the claim of David A. Breen, a builder, for $6,000 for services rendered in appraising the value of buildings on the site of the new amphitheatre court house Justice Page served notice this morning that he must be convinced beyond all doubt before he permits money to be paid from the city treasury.

"There is no satisfactory proof submitted as to the nature and extent of the services rendered by Mr. Breen," commented Justice Page.

In reply to the Court's statement Assistant Corporation Counsel Clenduff said:
"There were more than a hundred buildings on the court house site that Mr. Breen was obliged to go through, from foundation to top story, and measure and estimate the value of both building and fixtures. I certainly consider $6,000 a small return for such work."

No More Constipation

It's Me for Olive Tablets!

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for a hot summer.
Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing laxative.
No gripping is the "kyano" of these little sugar-coated tablets.
They cause the bowels and liver to act normal. They never force them to unnatural action.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not regard them as "medicine" at all.
If you have a "dare, brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—a sick headache—a torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime.
They're perfectly harmless.

Thousands take one every night just to keep right. Try them.
"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box.

CHECK SWINDLER IS SENT TO PRISON FOR SIX MONTHS.

Pedro Gattelle, Dapper Young Cuban, Had Many Victims, Policeman Tells Court.

Pedro Gattelle, a dapper looking young Cuban, neatly dressed and of suave manners, twirled his tapering mustache nervously, as he stood before the Justices in Special Sessions, Part I, today, and heard Probation Officer Cammins tell the court a few reasons why he should be sent to the penitentiary on a conviction of larceny.

"The prisoner," said Officer Cammins, "has left a trail of worthless checks wherever he went. It has been impossible for me to get an accounting of all of them, but they range from $1 to $500 each. They have been given in payment for everything from board bills to automobiles and always the defendant has received a balance of cash for the amount of the check's face."

Officer Cammins said Alberto Valez, millionaire owner of pineapple plantations in Porto Rico, who has offices at No. 31 Worth street, was one of Gattelle's victims. Valez, it is alleged, contracted with Gattelle for the purchase of three automobiles. He made a payment on them of $1,000. The cars were never delivered, according to Valez.

Gattelle was sent to the penitentiary for six months.
